State No. 24.
Something Is Moving.
Cuba Welcomes Jews.
An Ear for the Bull.

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BEFORE prohibition started in the state of Washington some wet drys said: A shock is coming to the wets in this case."

What came is no longer a shock. Yesterday afternoon, Washington went wet as rapidly as possible, and decided to be state No. 24 in the wet column, with never a state in the dry column. The United States seems to know what it does when it wants.

RAILROAD FIGURES indicate that something is moving in the United States.

Ben. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania has already paid back all the millions that he borrowed from the R. F. C. to finance the electrification of his railroad from New York to Philadelphia, and the first 5 railroads making July returns show increases of net operating income for the month of 420 per cent, or from $23,000 to $49,454,000. When the railroads prosper, the country prospers, for then goods are moving and money is being spent.

A LITTLE WHILE AGO Spain and Portugal said to the Jews, "We do not want you, get out." The Jews left, and commercial prosperity went with them to Holland and to England. Time's whirligig takes another turn, and Cuba, controlled largely by men of Spanish blood, invites Jews to come from Germany, offering a sincere welcome and easy naturalization as citizens.

Cuba's new president, Cespedes, says "the new government will take every effort to aid the Jews in becoming Cuban citizens, and in finding here the 'promised land.'"

"AN EYE FOR AN EYE and a tooth for a tooth" is old, but "an ear for an ear" is new. The news comes out it comes from Valencia, Spain, land of bull fighting. When a bull fighter does something brave it is customry to make him a present of an ear cut from the slain bull. This he nails up for the admiration of his friends, as English deer hunters nail up the "brush" and "mask" of the fox.

Ruled by a feeling of justice, Valencia's bull fighters have decided that an unusually brave bull deserves something, and to such a bull they give a human ear, only it is a human ear made of silver, not actually cut from the body of a man.

EVERYTHING IS for the best of the best of all possible words, presumably, but angels that don't know how we manage must be surprised when Gabriel says to them: "Down there, with hundreds of millions hungry, they are cutting down earth's food supply, diminishing the planting of wheat by law, and, with other millions half or entirely naked ,they are cutting down the cotton acreage by law."

HARVEY D. GIBSON, chairman of the New York City relief committee, who deserves public gratitude for his hard work in a difficult period, reports that 279,000 New York families received help from the committee of which Mr. Gibson is the head.

GOVERNOR GUEST AT STATE FAIR TODAY

Exposition Crowd Expected To Top Yesterday's 50,000 Figure.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 31—This was governor's day at the Ohio state fair.

That meant an official inspection of the big show by Governor White, members of his cabinet and their families.

The morning schedule called for a visit to all exhibits. In the afternoon, the chief executive was to present the trophy and purse to the winner of the three-year-old trot for the $1,500 governor's stake, feature event of the harness racing program.

Governor's day at the fair was expected to draw an attendance even larger than that of yesterday when Director Hanefeld estimated early 50,000 visitors were on hand.

Tomorrow will be press day with Ohio newspaper men as guests. A luncheon in their honor will be given in the auditorium on the grounds. In the evening they will attend the grand championship spectacle of the horse shown which begins Monday night.

JOHNSON ADDS MORE ENERGY TO JOB DRIVE

Two Millions Estimated Back at Work But NRA Head Redoubles Efforts.

CONSUMERS PLEDGE AID

Marion Residents Join in Promising Cooperation With Blue Eagle.

While 250 Marion women workers in the NRA consumers' campaign left a trail of blue eagles throughout the residential districts of the city yesterday and prepared to wind up their work by Friday night, national NRA administrators reviewed August employment gains and prepared to attack new problems.

Mrs. J. C. Ackerman, city chairman of the consumers drive, said unofficial reports from workers indicated that several hundred Marion women have signed consumers' pledges and placed blue eagle stickers in the windows of their homes.

National NRA workers estimated 10,000,000 workers had been affected by the shorter hour and minimum wage provisions of the program to date, and that 2,000,000 jobless had been given work.

Johnson Launches New Job Drive

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—Hugh S. Johnson and his recovery administrators counted August employment gains under the blue eagle today and launched a new effort to open the doors of factories, mines and stores to an even greater number of idle in September.

Their immediate problems were the speedy formulation of permanent codes of competition for bituminous coal operators and the retail trade—affecting than a million workers—and the question of bringing Henry Ford and his huge plants within the scope of the automobile agreement.

Recapitulating August activities in President Roosevelt's drive to stimulate employment and purchasing power before winter sets in, the NRA chieftains found 18 permanent codes and 240 temporary trade pacts had been approved, bringing upwards of 10,000,000 workers under shorter hours and higher minimum wage agreements.

Demands Shorter Hours

Simultaneously, Johnson was confronted with a demand by labor's chief spokesman—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor—that even shorter hour provisions be inserted in codes so as to spread employment at a faster and greater rate.

Green said federation figures showed that 2,000,000 idle had found jobs since March 1. This estimate agreed in substance with an estimate made by Johnson, the only re-employment figure announced by NRA officials.

Johnson returned last night from a speaking trip to Boston to find a request from President Roosevelt for a detailed report on the failure of Ford to sign the automobile code approved last Sunday.

The recovery administrator declined to comment. He has said repeatedly he has had no word from the Detroit manufacturer. It appeared today that a showdown between the administrator and Ford was near.

Ford has until Sept. 5 to come in under the code and obtain his blue eagle. If he fails to do this, Johnson said he thought the American people would "crack down on him when the blue eagle is on other cars."

A. D. Whiteside, deputy administrator, sought to shape a master code for the entire retail trade, including druggists and grocers, for dispatch to Mr. Roosevelt by the middle of next week. A tentative plan was worked out yesterday by which the small stores, especially those family operated, would bear a share of the labor load imposed by the code.

Press Code Changed

Approval by Johnson of a modified re-employment agreement for small daily and weekly newspapers and job printers throughout the country was announced by officials of the National Editorial association. The agreement provided a 40-hour average work week with a 48-hour maximum, but exempted from these provisions reporters earning $25 and more a week.

More than 20 hearings on codes have been set for the next two weeks and Green's demand for shorter working hours presaged a sterner fight for 30 and 35 hour provisions which would require the employment of many additional helpers in all lines. Green asserted that the longer hours of 40 to 52 now being approved were not meeting the needs of the unemployment problem.

Consumers' Drive Pushed in City

Some scattered precincts had been completely canvassed at noon today, drive leaders reported, but workers hill several their pla-

LOAN CO. BOARD IS REELECTED

Result of Ballots Cast Yesterday Announced at Meeting Today.

ONLY ONE SLATE UP

Old Directors Proceed With Election After Special Session Is Halted by Chairman.

Directors of the Home Building, Savings & Loan Co. were declared to be reelected to serve until next January when the results of ballots cast yesterday by stockholders were announced today at 2 p. m.

Immediately after the announcement of the vote, Chairman Hoke Donithen declared the following directors reelected: H. A. True, S. G. Kleinmaier, Hayes Thompson, C. H. Isaly, E. J. Schoenlaub, J. J. Stafford, E. L. Bush. Each of the reelected directors received from 7,567 to 7,585 votes. Names of others written in on the ballots were J. M. Strelitz, M. L. Buckley and G. R. Henney. Each of the latter three received 18 votes.

It was announced that the board members will be sworn in and will organize Monday afternoon.

Twelve At Meeting

Results of the balloting were read to an audience of 12 persons in The Star auditorium this afternoon by John J. Stafford, secretary of the meeting. The election was conducted by Judges G. Farr Larie and Paul D. Michel, Clerks E. W. Wood and C. W. Smoot, Inspectors Smoot, Allen and Wood.

Today's session was the last of a series of five adjourned sessions of a special meeting of stockholders to elect directors. The special meeting was called by the board after the legality of their election last January had been attacked because they failed to send written notices to stockholders in advance of the meeting at which they were elected. Yesterday afternoon's session was marked by an announcement by R. E. O'Conner, who has headed a group of stockholders seeking removal of the directors, that he had decided to "drop the fight."

Until yesterday afternoon, Mr. O'Conner acted as chairman of the meetings, although his election as chairman was repeatedly held by attorneys to be illegal because the vote that elected him was not taken on the basis of stock, O'Conner as chairman repeatedly ruled that a majority vote of the stockholders present determined all issues before the meeting. The directors contended that each stockholder was permitted one vote for each share of stock, up to 20, and that proxies were to be regarded on the same basis as stockholders present.

Only One Slate Up

The votes cast yesterday did not include proxies for approximately 2,000 shares of stock held by persons seeking removal of the present board, it was estimated. These votes had been marshalled for a slate of directors placed in nomination by Mr. O'Conner during the first session. Mr. O'Conner did not call for a vote on his slate of directors, however, asserting yesterday that reelection of the present board was a foregone conclusion. He retired as chairman and honored a vote for adjournment without taking a vote.

The directors ignored the adjournment, contending it was not legally voted, and conducted an election in what they said was the form prescribed by statutes and the company's by-laws.

Members of the present board were the only persons placed in nomination in the election conducted by officials of the company.

KENTUCKY MOVES TO SPEED REPEAL

By The Associated Press

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 31—The resolution providing for Kentucky's vote of prohibition repeal will be up for final action in the senate Friday, extended so as to have the convention meet on Nov. 27 instead of on Dec. 11, as originally decided.

The decision was reached so that Kentucky might become one of the first 10 states to pass on repeal. The election will be held Nov. 7.

TWO STRIKERS DIE IN RIOT

Two New Ohio Tax Laws Become Effective Friday

One Places Levy on Admissions to Amusement Places; Beer Cap Stamp Cut.

Two Ohio tax laws will become effective Friday, one levying a tax on admissions to all amusement places and the other reducing the state cap tax on beer to one cent a bottle.

County Treasurer R. G. Smallwood this morning received 30,000 one-cent stamps for bottled beer. He announced that retailers would be obliged to stamp each bottle of beer sold after midnight, and added that his office would be open until 4:30 p. m. today for dealers to purchase stamps.

Dealers who have a supply of unused two-cent stamps on hand may exchange them for one-cent stamps at the treasurer's office, it was announced.

Tax on Malt

The new beer tax law also levies a tax of 10 cents on a pound, or each fraction, of malt and approximately 10 cents a gallon on brewers' wort, Treasurer Smallwood announced. Stamps to be used for malt and wort also have been received here.

Three Marion theaters Friday will increase admission prices as they pass on to patrons the new state admission tax. The tax amounts to one cent for each 10 cents or fraction thereof on all admissions in excess of 10 cents. Theater managers announced that this represented aproximately 12 per cent of the theaters' gross receipts.

C. H. Fry of Columbus, examiner for the state tax commission, yesterday called upon proprietors of amusement places in Marion to acquaint them with details of the admission tax law.

Mr. Fry called attention to a state tax commission regulation requiring that the manager or proprietor of each amusement place post at the outer entrance and near the box office a sign stating the established price of admission and listing the amount of state and federal taxes to be added to the established price.

He said the tax commission will permit theater managers to use present supplies of tickets used in mechanical vendors without stamping these tickets with the amount of the state tax, but will require that all future supplies of tickets must comply with the law in every respect. A temporary suspension of the same requirement has been granted to theaters where tickets are ejected by a cash register mechanism, which would require the use of a die in the machine to stamp the tickets, Mr. Fry said.

The tax will apply to all forms of amusements.

ALLEN COUNTY BOY IS HELD AS RUNAWAY

12-Year-Old Cyclist Detained Here After 40-Mile Ride.

A 12-year-old boy who told police officers he had ridden a bicycle here from his home near Lafayette, O., a distance of approximately 40 miles, was picked up as a runaway last night about 11:30 at Main and Center streets. He gave his name as James Evans.

Authorities could give no information as to the boy's reason for leaving his home. The sheriff of Allen county, in which county Lafayette is located, has been notified and was to come here for the boy today.

Young Evans was taken to the county detention home on Wallace street pending arrival of the sheriff.

The boy was picked up by police when they thought his actions were out of the ordinary and also because of his presence in the business district late at night. Later, a report was received from Allen county officials that the boy was missing from his home.

Fred Clagett, union president, made the following committee appointments:

Organization, Fred Davis, Ora Stevens, James Sons and Fred Behrens; grievance committee, Hayes Maynard and Glenn Sweetland.

ERIE CALLS FIFTEEN MEN BACK TO WORK

Reemployment of 15 furloughed Erie railroad employes was announced today by railroad officials.

The men, employes of the locomotive department, returned to their jobs yesterday. For several it was their first work in two or three years, officials said.

The reemployment was occasioned by increasing activity in the locomotive repair and maintenance department, which has resulted from a general improvement in the railroad's business, officials reported.

Three Youths Taken from Perilous Mountain Ledge

Trio Hauled To Safety With Ropes After Two Days on Dangerous Perch.

By The Associated Press

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 31—Three boy scouts who clung for their lives to a tiny ledge 400 feet up on the rocky side of Wallface mountain told today how they were saved from death after two days of privation and peril.

The scouts—Robert Glenn, Tyler Grey and William La Due—were nearing exhaustion and a probable fatal plunge down the perpendicular cliff, into a gorge when the rescuers in a thrilling feat of mountaineering, hauled them to safety at the end of a 220-foot rope late yesterday.

Lifted to a higher ledge, they were brought down along a wild Adirondack trail. Today they were recovering from the effects of hunger and exposure to freezing winds.

The youths were trapped on the sharply sloping ledge when a piece of rock broke off behind them early Tuesday.

"We were never desperate, we were never during our imprisonment," [illegible]

"From [illegible] come sailing down over the mountain we knew we would be taken down and just waited.

"We were trapped when the rock which we used for a step broke off and crashed to the ground 400 feet below us," LaDue said. "We knew then that we could not get off the ledge without help. It was a ledge about two feet wide and sloping downward at an angle of about 45 degrees. We had a hard time staying on it."

In Constant Peril

During the night, he said, Glenn and Grey tied themselves to a bush so they would not slide off. In the morning when the three clung together, taking turns at standing in the middle. They were clad only in light hiking clothes.

End of Dry Law by Dec. 5 Seen as Possibility

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 — A clear-cut possibility that the Eighteenth amendment could be voted void within the next 10 weeks emerged today from the three-one repeal majority cast by voters representing nearly three-fifths of the nation's population.

The heavy recording of Washington as the twenty-fourth state to ballot in favor of the Twenty-first or repealing amendment carried the anti-prohibition surge across two-thirds of the distance to its goal.

15 To Vote

At least 15 more states will vote before Nov. 8 -providing a minimum of three more than necessary for repeal- should the uninterrupted procession of the first 24 be continued.

New England became the focal point of national wet and dry interest today as Vermont and Maine sharpened pencils for early September balloting. They were the first of seven states to vote within the next three weeks.

"Should 12 of the 15 states sure to vote before the eighth of November follow the line of the first 24, the prohibition amendment would be formally abolished on Dec. 5 or 6. Three ratifying conventions meet on Dec. 5 and two more on the sixth.

Statisticians adding up and analyzing the vote thus far figured today that although only half the states had balloted, more than 72,000,000 of the nation's 122,698,190 population lived within their borders on the basis of the 1930 census.

The popular vote in the 24 recorded states stands in round numbers at 9,800,000 in favor of repeal to 3,000,000 against. These figures, of course, do not include the recordings in Nevada and Wyoming, where delegates were elected by mass meetings and county conventions.

Kansas Action Called

On the basis of present voting dates, all but nine states holding 14,565,076 of the nation's population will have balloted by Nov. 8. These nine include Kansas and Louisiana.

Governor Landon has called a special session of the Kansas legislature to meet in September, and probably a voting day will be set during the present year. Governor O. K. Allen of Louisiana has stated he also would call a special session. Should both these states vote this year, only about 10,000,000 of the population would not have been given an opportunity to ballot on repeal during this period.

Here are the election days already established during the next 10 weeks:

Vermont, Sept. 5; Maine, Sept. 11; Colorado, Maryland and Minnesota, Sept. 12; Idaho and New Mexico, Sept. 19; Virginia, Oct. 3; Florida, Oct. 10; North and South Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah and Kentucky (tentative), Nov. 7.

POLICE BATTLE HUGE CROWD AT EASTERN MILL

TWO POLICEMEN INJURED

Walk Outs Close Philadelphia Textile Mills; NRA Signs Stoned.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31—Two men were shot and killed and at least 18 persons injured today as 200 police battled many times their number of strikers and sympathizers outside the Cambria hosiery mills in northeastern Philadelphia.

The dead man were Clem H. Norwood and Frank Milnor, strike pickets. The shooting occurred after the overturning of a truck which was bringing non-strikers to work.

Police estimated the crowd to number 2,000, while other sources placed the total much higher.

Police did not know who did the shooting. An officer who was riding in the cab of the truck said he fired two shots into the ground and two into the air, but the death-dealing bullets were fired later. Witnesses said the latter shots came from the truck after it rolled over.

All Mills Closed

Virtually every other hosiery mill in Philadelphia has been closed by the walkout, and strikers from all parts of the city congregated at the Cambria plant. Fifty police were already on guard because of previous disorders in the eight-week strike, but they were overwhelmed when the trouble started.

Eight automobiles carrying workers had broken through the picket lines, although every window was broken by missiles, when the truck appeared. In it were 14 employes.

The crowd rushed the truck and bowled it over, trapping the workers inside. Then the pickets began battering at the vehicle and the shots rang forth.

Norwood was killed instantly and Milnor died soon afterward in a hospital. William Madison, who was among the demonstrators, was struck on the shin by a glancing bullet.

Police charged the crowd and took the workers inside the plant, later removing them to a police station for questioning.

NRA Banner Is Target

Windows in the plant—particularly one displaying an NRA banner were the targets for bricks and stones. The barrage was answered with lead weights hurled by persons inside the buildings.

Among those hurt were two policemen. The officers riding on the truck was struck in the face by a brick, and another officer was hit on the head with a lead weight. The latter is in a serious condition.

F. D. R. PREPARES FOR RETURN TO CAPITAL

Gets Word on Henry Ford But is Confident of NRA Success.

By The Associated Press

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 31 — President Roosevelt started today on a cruise back to Washington confident in the success of his NRA drive for more jobs and higher wages.

He talked with General Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, apparently on what Henry Ford intends to do about cooperating with the rest of the automobile men on their code.

The President sought last night to make sure that everything was in shape for the new deal by Labor day and appointed the 15 members of the committee to govern the oil industry. They meet today in Washington with Secretary Ickes, the oil administrator.

Before leaving the summer White House, the chief executive reserved his last minutes to receive the complicated agreement finally putting the bituminous coal industry under a code for hours of work and wages.

The basis of an understanding on this code was reached several days ago between General Johnson and the representatives of the operators and miners.

With this agreement and the automobile business, except Ford, also lining up under the blue eagle, the President looked forward upon his arrival in Washington on Tuesday morning to a united front by the nation in behalf of the new deal.

Meanwhile Vincent Astor's yacht, the Nourmahal, was steaming down the Hudson this morning to Dutton's lumber pier at Poughkeepsie where President Roosevelt went aboard at noon.

Kingfish Rushes from Train in New Orleans Under Guard.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 31—Senator Huey P. Long, back home after a stormy and eventful trip north, remained silent today about the cut over the eye he got at the New York club and everything connected with it.

From a guarded stateroom on his train, the self-styled "kingfish" of Louisiana politics stepped last night to the guarded platform of a suburban railway station, dashed to an automobile and sped away home—delivered by guards.

The senator's predecessors went to a hotel go pictures were made and those who showed quantities about the injured optic and the offer of a Canal Island ship show to pay the senator $1 a thousand dollars a night, received only an angry glare in reply.

Ohio Racketeers On Run as U. S. Fights Crime

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 31 — Racketeers in Ohio are on the run.

Hitherto comparatively safe from county and city authorities, the hoodlums now are finding themselves harassed by the federal government and they can't escape.

Reports from authoritative sources here declare that the federal grand juries at Toledo and Cleveland will make special reports on racketeering this fall.

Twelve United States department of justice agents are reported working in northern Ohio gathering information as to the extent of operations of the hoodlums.

The illicit activities of the racketeers have been so widespread, it is admitted, that few citizens have escaped from paying, at least indirectly, tribute to gangland.

Growing bolder as the return of legal beer cut off their once fabulous income from bootlegging, the underworld chieftains are attempting to harness industry and trade.

The gun, the torch, bombs and acid are some of the weapons used by the mobsmen.

Overstep Territory

But the racketeers overstepped their territory when they tried to "muscle in" on legitimate business.

One of the greatest factors in the present drive against the underworld is an aroused public that refuses to be intimidated.

Joseph B. Keenan, a native Ohioan and special assistant attorney general in charge of the war on rackets, declared that there has been a change from passive attitude to one of defiance to racketeers since the return of legal beer.

"People," Keenan stated, "are showing a greater contempt for the racketeer."

Keenan, square-jawed former army lieutenant, is convinced that two widespread beliefs regarding the racketeers are facts. In general, his convictions, briefly, are.

1. That there must be an alliance between racketeers and some law enforcement agencies in some parts of the country.

2. That the affairs of most racketeers are being directed by intelligent minds and educated individuals perhaps by men in professional life.

"The conditions that exist are intolerable," Keenan warned. "They must be stopped."

The hands of city and county authorities are tied in the war against hoodlums because of the limited scope of their jurisdiction. The mobsmen can flee from their territory but they can't escape from the department of justice unless they leave the country.

Ohio Cities Wage War

In two northern Ohio cities, a war against racketeering by the local authorities is being waged.

At Toledo, Prosecutor Frazier Reams is in the midst of a campaign to drive "every hoodlum out of Lucas county."

Safety Director E. E. (Ad) Adams of Cleveland ordered police to pick up all known racketeers on sight and harass them until they leave the town. During the first 24 hours, police arrested 32 known hoodlums.

At Toledo, Prosecutor Reams is sniping effectively at the racketeers from another angle. He threatened arrest and prosecution of business men who pay "protection" money to the hoodlums.

As a result, the tradesmen are coming to him and telling him of the operations of the racketeers. He found that slot machines provided the main source of revenue and choked off that revenue by a determined offensive.

In the background there looms the department of justice agents. Rumors from the underworld say that gang leaders are growing restless. Many are reported to have fled Toledo for Cleveland.

But Safety Director Adams' order promises that they won't stay in that city very long.

Toledo and Cleveland are not the only cities afflicted by racketeering. Akron is the scene of an underworld battle for control of the slot machines in Summit county. At least three hoodlums have been slain there in sporadic outbursts.

"Racketeering presents a very grave menace to the people of Ohio," said one high police official here "but the public is aroused, and it looks like we can fight a winning battle."

Hey! Astronomers

Perhaps the only person who has looked at the "sky" at the Palace theater since the opening week, witnessed a phenomenon the other night. In the interlude between programs, the balcony-sitter contented herself with watching the "clouds" ride across the stars. Suddenly not gradually oozing to a stop like clouds do, the theater "clouds" stopped dead still, and for a moment it seemed they might roll backwards. But the cloud-maker got things adjusted and they rolled on, much to peace of mind of the watcher.

• • •

Life's That Way

Just when the woiking-goil thinks things are beginning to look up for her, some thoughtless individual shatters everything. One of the young women who received notice to be at work at 8 in the morning instead of 7:45, a move made in one Marion plant in conforming to the NRA, set the alarm for 7:10 instead of 6:30 and went to bed gloating over the extra 20 minutes. The next thing she heard was an automobile horn dinning away like 60 in front of the neighboring house. At intervals the driver leaned on the horn. At last, in a state of sheer nervous exhaustion from the incessant honking she wearily raised herself on one elbow and blinked at the alarm clock. It was exactly 6:30, and thoroughly wide awake she tumbled out of bed, mentally heaping coals of fire on the horn-blower.

• • •

Dividing Line

Funny that rain last Saturday. Marion residents who left here in the midst of the hardest downpour, reported that at the Pennsylvania tracks north of Marion, the rain stopped as abruptly as though a curtain had dropped. On one side of the tracks it was wet, and on the other side not a drop of water had fallen.

• • •

His Waterloo

Good news for Fire Chief McFarland. One of the Marionites who worries the firemen every time the trucks go out—he drives so close to the trucks that the men have to keep motioning him to stay back—went to the Big City the other night, heard the trucks go screaming by and set out to find the fire.

In Columbus chasing fire departments is prohibited, but never let any one put it over that blase capital folks don't go to fires. When the Marion man arrived within a block of the fire, which was in the Indian Springs residential district, there were more cars lining the streets for blocks than there were at the Ohio State fairgrounds. And a block is the closest the fire-chaser ever got to the burning building.

But he did find a lot of new, winding roads through the hollow, while he was trying to get within smelling distance of the smoke. And all the time the sky was aglow with the blaze of a roaring fire. He never did get to the fire, and his companion secretly gloated all the way home, thinking how satisfied Chief McFarland would be at hearing the story of his failure.

A New Line

Many salesmen have talked of the grand gestures that the people can make these days in buying, buying, buying to end the depression, but it remained for one sweeper salesman to tell his Marion client that it would be a "beautiful gesture" to invest in his product.

Farm Relief

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 31—See picture in the papers of an old boy eating 54 ears of corn as an appetizer, and a woman 71 years old stores away 45. Since we give 'em the vote, there just is no end to women's cleverness. Man just can't hardly beat 'em at anything.

If Secretary of Agriculture Wallace will get busy and promote a lot of these corn-eating contests, there is no reason why it can't be made as popular as bridge (it has much more to recommend it). Well, with a lot of these contests, they won't have to be plowing up every third row of corn.

Long Island better have this kind of parties, then they can't throw anything at the senators but the cobs.

Yours,

Will Rogers

BUS COMPANY WILL START DETROIT RUN

Marion on Route of Line From Columbus Into Michigan.

Bus service from Columbus to Detroit, through Marion, will be added to the present routes of the Marion-Lima Transit Co. within 30 days, H. M. Rose, president, announced today.

The Columbus-Detroit run will require the addition of two busses and the employment of about four more drivers, Mr. Rose said.

A tentative schedule provides for two round trips a day, leaving Marion for Detroit at 9 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. Since the new route is interstate, tickets cannot be purchased for transportation from Marion to Columbus on the new line but must be bought for some point outside the state.

Permission of the state utilities commission for operation of the route has just been granted, Mr. Rose said.

The busses to be added are already on hand, Mr. Rose said. They are 29 passenger parlor coaches.

The Marion-Lima Transit Co. now operates through Marion, Columbus, Prospect, Radnor, Kenton and Lima.

"NEW YORK MAIL reaches Europe in only four days." A plane catapulted from the German liner Europa delivered letters in London and Berlin four days after they left New York. That "only four days" will seem, to future generations, as queer as though we said now "only four months."

If the United States would act, we should have American dirigibles flying back and forth between this country and Europe, as they now fly back and forth between Brazil and Germany, and mail from New York would be distributed in Paris, London and Rome within 40 hours.

DISPATCHES from London have repeatedly reported the English as "smiling" at Ireland's hostile attitude toward Britain. The smiles are partly explained by the news that Irish sales of goods abroad, England being the principal market, have dropped by nearly $150,000,000 during the first seven months of this year. If, however, the Irish have eaten their own butter, ducks, chickens, eggs and beef, instead of sending them to England, that would not be such bad news.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN SCHOTT of 207 Olney avenue, entertained with a rabbit dinner last evening in the parlors of the Prospect Street M. E. church for members of the Sunday school board and also as a farewell for Rev. and Mrs. Karl W. Patow who will leave next week to make their home in Saginaw, Mich., where Rev. Patow will be pastor of the Tuscola Street M. E. church.

Mr. Schott, who has served as Sunday school superintendent for the last 23 years, will retire on Oct. 1, to be succeeded by William Wanner. The dinner was in appreciation to the board members for their cooperation in his years as superintendent.

Rev. Patow presided as toastmaster. Mr. Schott welcomed his guests, and the incoming superintendent, Mr. Wanner, made the response. Mrs. Patow, Miss Clara Trefz, Harry Wilhelm and Fred P. Haas were called on for one-minute extemporaneous talks. At the close of their talks, Rev. Patow spoke, thanking the board members for the loyalty during his six years as pastor. He gave a brief resume of the Central German conference meeting in Cincinnati last week, and spoke of his new charge in Michigan. The remainder of the evening was spent socially and with games.

The tables at which 28 were seated, were lighted by tall candles and decorated with bowls of garden flowers.

Assisting the hosts in serving were Mrs. Lena McCay, Miss Mildred Ikensaa, Miss Dorothy Regan and Misses Alice and Ruth Schott. Those present besides the hosts and their assistants were Rev. and Mrs. Patow, Mr. and Mrs. William Wanner, Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Homemaker's Question Box

Question — What constitutes a good sandwich for the school child?

Answer—The bread should be 24 hours old. For substantial sandwiches, cut one-fourth inch thick and spread to the edge with butter.

The filling may be of meat, fish, eggs, cheese, peanut butter, chopped or sliced vegetables, nuts or dried fruits.

The meat should be cooked until very tender and sliced in thin slices or chopped for filling. Be sure to remove gristle and superfluous fat. Meat sandwiches be opened and fresh vegetable as lettuce or sliced tomato and dressing may be added just before eating.

Chopped celery, cucumber or pickle—lemon juice or a tart salad dressing are tasty in a fish sandwich.

All kinds of cheeses lend themselves readily to sandwich making. Chopped celery, pickles and green peppers make a nice addition.

Peanut butter is more palatable and goes much further if creamed and thinned with hot water, cooked mayonnaise, chili sauce, or cream. Chopped celery, pickle or raisins make a tasty addition.

Eggs sliced or chopped and mixed with a little dressing make a wholesome and nutritious sandwich.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

A Package of W. P.'s

COLIN had obeyed. He had been under observation at the restaurant that was obvious enough whether by one or many. Then, again in the afternoon, Benny Malone had telephoned again, and this time had given him the street and number of a tobacco store where he was to report at 7 30 that evening.

There no other customer was in the store at the time he had been instructed to ask for a package of W P's—otherwise he was to make any purchase he liked that would serve as a pretext for his presence there and wait until he was alone with the proprietor.

Colin's lips compressed on the stub of his cigaret. A package of W P's. The Wine Press! Cap a Orage had taught him that! This was more than the thin edge of the wedge. It looked like a wide-hung door with Welcome! blazoned on the doormat. Or was it the old old story of the spider and the fly?

It was nearly 7 30 now. He glanced around him. He was approaching an old elongated two-story frame building with dormer windows a relic of New York's early days that flanked a modern six-story tenement.

It looked as though it had been made over into two houses—at least there were two entrances one at either end—but while the one nearer him boasted a narrow porch before its door the one at the far end seemed to be that of a store and judging from the way the house and tenement numbers had been running it obviously must be the tobacco store he was looking for.

* * *

His glance apparently casual was suddenly critical absorbing details. He was abreast of the porch now. An old white haired man the only person in the neighborhood who it would seem, did not feel the heat for he wore a rusty black shabby Prince Albert coat buttoned tightly around him sat there on the porch in a rocking chair a cane across his knees intent upon a newspaper which he was reading through steel-rimmed spectacles that straggled far down his nose.

The man did not look up as Colin passed by. Colin did not alter his pace. A curious place this! Besides the two entrances he had already noted there was also a third one he now saw in about the center of the building—a basement entrance from the sidewalk.

This was wide open, and over the head of the doorway at the bottom of the steps there was a "Shoes to Mend" sign. The obvious questions flashed into his mind. If this was the Wine Press was the cobbler down there a factor—also the old man on the porch?

He hated now in front of the store. The window display had a cheap appearance. White-painted lettering on the panes, the paint scarcely discernible on many a letter proclaimed the fact that one Michael Barney dealt in cigars cigarets pipes and tobacco.

It was the store he was looking for undoubtedly—and through the window Colin could see that there was no one inside at the moment except a wizened little man with red hair who stood behind one of the counters.

Colin mounted the three steps from the sidewalk opened the door entered and shut the door behind him. It was a small place. Prosperity did not seem to lurk in the seedy showcases or on the none too generously stocked shelves. There was a public telephone booth in one corner at the rear. Colin nodded pleasantly. The man with the red hair was looking at him inquiringly from across the counter.

"I'd like a package of W P's," Colin requested.

The man nodded in return.

"You're Clarkie Lunn, ain't you?"

"Yes," said Colin.

"I'm Barney," announced the other. "It's all right. I've been looking for you." He jerked his head in the direction of a door at the rear of the store beside the telephone booth. "Go on in there. First room you come to."

"Thanks," said Colin.

* * *

He CROSSED the store, opened the door indicated and found himself in a narrow passageway. On his left was a closed in staircase; just a few paces ahead on his right was an open door. He reached the latter and paused for an instant on the threshold.

It was quite a sizable room—evidently Mr. Michael Barney's "parlor." Shabby genteel Knickknacks and china ornaments in profusion a worn carpet chairs of the long ago plush upholstered the plush faded and colorless a horsehair sofa,—and on the sofa sprawled at full length was Benny Malone.

"Hello, Clarkie," Benny Malone called out with a grin. "We meet again. How'd'ye like your lunch?"

Colin grinned back.

"You're all to the good, Benny. I was getting the once-over eh?"

"Sure. I'll say you were! But the gates wide open for you now. Sit down but leave the door open. Some of the boys are blowing in by and by. Sorry I can't flash a drink," he drooped an eyelid—"but this dump is on the level. Boone cards, and skirts is ruled out."

"Mr and Mrs Barney are just a quiet old pair—got a bedroom where they sleep, and a kitchen where they cook and eat, just behind here along the hall, and a couple of rooms upstairs just because they're there that they rent sometimes to roomers. There ain't much dough in running a tobacco emporium in these parts. Poor but honest get me? The pastor of their church comes around regular to see 'em—the cops gave that up long ago."

Colin slumped down in a chair. "You mean they're in the know?" he inquired.

Benny Malone laughed.

"What d'ye think? Just as much as I am or you ever will be unless you get picked out for one of the Masks big shots. They're under-cover stuff."

The Stars Say

For Friday Sept. 1

ALTHOUGH THE planetary configurations for this day hold tension ones of splendid advantages capacity ambition and acumen yet there are also signs of a mental pressure accompanied by a state of stimulated energies that may prove devastating or abortive to excellent opportunities.

Those whose birthday it is stand at the verge of a year of splendid opportunity for enhancing the position and increasing the fortunes, but there is a sign of too stimulated mental and physical energies which may project affairs into heights where they overleap themselves and fall on the other side. Calm control cool decisions and well directed powers should bring many advantages.

A child born on this day should have excellent mental and physical energies which may prove to its detriment unless taught to use them temperately and prudently.

Given in Marriage

BY ADELLE GARRISON

Hugh Grantland's invitation to Edith Fairfax to share his car on the moonlight drive is countermanded by Dicky.

THERE was a sudden cessation of chatter in the group around the cars as Hugh Grantland asked Edith Fairfax if she would share his runabout for the moonlight drive to the ocean, which she had proposed. It was so unheard of a thing for Hugh to single out any woman for attention—that his little speech appeared to strike everybody dumb.

Of us all, I think Edith herself was the most astonished and—I guessed—dismayed. I knew as well as almost everybody else in the group that she had proposed the moonlight drive to the ocean in the hope that she could maneuver Dicky into taking her in his car "built only for two."

Of course, she had not asked him to take her in that fashion but she had made the proposal for a drive directly to him, and I knew she had wished for two things—to claim Dicky for a tete-a-tete drive, and to make me jealously angry.

A Hopeless Love

This unexpected query of Hugh's had deflated her promptly and thoroughly. If she had been a woman eaten up with inordinate vanity, as Avis Arlen she would have been so elated over deflecting from me even so small a part of the attention which Hugh unobtrusively but steadily has given me for years that she would have forgotten her wish to annex Dicky in a feeling of triumph over me.

But Edith Fairfax is not a vain woman. Indeed she is innately one of the finest women I know. Yet she had had the misfortune to fall violently in love with Dicky even before I married him, in the days when she and her sister Lelia were struggling futilely to establish themselves as artists in New York, and her hopeless infatuation for him has warped—I almost wrote "wrecked"—her whole life. In all other matters she is high minded and unselfish, but where Dicky is concerned she is ruthless, and I have the feeling that while she would not stoop to the depths of plotting to which poor half-crazed Grace Draper descended she would yet risk much—go to great lengths—if she thought she could win Dicky for herself.

"I heard a slight sibilant intake of Edith's breath and knew that she was as exasperated as she was astonished. It was not even a sop to the little vanity she possesses less than that of most women, for I knew she was keen enough to read between the lines of Hugh's words and see exactly what he was trying to do.

It was something I myself, had seen instantly although I savagely scored myself for the vanity that prompted the thought. But in Dicky's sardonic eyes fixed on my face—I did not dare look at him directly but from underneath my lashes I saw his expression and in the ill-suppressed grin curving Harry Underwood's lips I read the same conclusion. This was that Hugh had asked Edith to go with him not from any desire for her company but on my account—to spare me the pain as he thought of seeing her go off alone with my husband.

I was not surprised to hear Dicky intervene and I was conceited enough to believe that he would not have uttered a word of protest save for his belief that Hugh was staging the request to chagrin of seeing her take Dicky with her.

"Sorry to cut in, old man," Dicky said airily, "but by my handsome the lady is pledged to me variety through I be for this moonlit trip to the ocean. She hasn't had a chance at one for a long time and I've been promising her the treat for ages."

Lee Chow Commands

"Treat! I suppose being spelled 'the Dicky bird' in your modest assumption. Harry," I drawled.

"Exactly. Dicky rests 'em' with a burlesqued cockiness. Ain't so, Edie?"

I waited breathlessly for Edith's answer. Was she brazen enough, knowing that almost every one in the room knew or suspected her feeling for Dicky, to hold him to the offer a passerby made as an afterthought and 'for Hugh'?

Her answer was not long in coming.

"I am sorry," she said coldly, "Mr. Hugh but I had completely forgotten that I had promised Dicky this drive. I know that can't be very soothing to your vanity, Dicky bird, but it happens to be the truth. I do hope you'll ask me another time, Hugh."

I consider myself promised to me for the next moonlight beach party," Hugh said gallantly and under cover of his words Lee Chow who had been eyeing him closely moved nearer to me.

"I have changed my mind," he said. "I do not wish to talk tonight. Perhaps I too, shall go to the beach. But if Hugh asks you, go."

Better Than Statesman.

Members of an American President's family are not always an unmixed blessing. Inevitably, they share with him the focus of that concentrated and intense attention which only the near-perfect can survive without embarrassment.

One member of President Roosevelt's large and active family is reported standing up extraordinarily well under scrutiny by people who cannot be expected to observe any close compunctions of criticism. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., traveling in Europe, is doing a vast deal in an artless, boyish fashion to dispel foreign dislike of American tourists, according to a correspondent of the New York Times.

All indications point to a certain admirable modesty on his vacation which the young man's father seems to have augmented by the circumstances of the occasion. The President, apparently, gave his son a modest sum of money and told him to see Europe as a tourist and not as the namesake of a man who is head of a great government. It was inevitable, of course, that certain responsibilities, such as calls on leading European statesmen, should fall on the young man's shoulders, but he has accepted them as opportunities rather than as distinctions peculiar to his position.

In his frank delight with his experiences, in his becoming modesty and in his unaffected manner with statesmen anxious to pay him the respect they feel is his due, young Mr. Roosevelt probably can do more to stimulate friendship abroad than could 10 ambitious ambassadors of good will, simply because the latter would be motivated by a purpose while the President's son, with an advantage of position, is motivated by nothing more serious than a young man's intelligent curiosity to observe the modern form of an older civilization.

A Change In Circumstances.

The occident, interested in the drama of Mahatma Gandhi's opposition to the British, finds it had to realize that the little man's political power is waning. The civil disobedience movement which he led has collapsed. His party is reported ready to disown him. His latest fast, recently ended, aroused only a portion of the excitement attendant upon formed exhibition of the same kind.

He has turned to the anti-caste movement to hold his position as India's most dramatic figure. As liberator of the "untouchables" he may be able to hold some of the prestige he possessed when the civil disobedience movement was in full flower. Shortly, it will be necessary for him to make a decision which very probably will determine the closing chapters in the life of this extraordinary man.

Once more the British have released him from prison rather than to take partial responsibility for his health. If he decides to continue his campaign for caste elimination, they will be obliged to retaliate, in that case, by another period of fasting. There are not many more exhibitions left in the frail little man's body. The fast just concluded had serious effects, and probably would have been fatal if continued a week longer.

His sincerity is unquestioned. Because it is unquestioned, there is no disposition to believe that the mahatma will make any compromise to protect his own health; he will continue to speak and act upon his convictions at any cost. In other words, if there is necessity for making once more a decision between liberating the "untouchables" and going to jail, the mahatma will go to jail. Once in jail, if it becomes necessary to choose between inactivity and another dramatic fast, the mahatma will fast. He is not the political force he once was, but he still is the world's most dramatic reformer.

Italy, Austria and Hungary.

Hitler, imitator of Mussolini, bears much less favor with Il Duce than Dollfuss, bitter enemy of Hitler and Hitler's political methods. In the significances of this three-cornered relationship lies probably the most important situation in Europe at the moment.

If the Nazi movement in Austria were to become powerful enough to ally Austria with Germany, France would not have the slightest doubt as to the necessity for taking military action immediately. It would mean to the French that a politician who is reviving Germany with his blood-and-iron policies means to make Germany once more a threat to their precious security.

It would mean to Italy that this same energetic politician intends to disrupt that intricate balance of power by which Austria and Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Poland have been made to guarantee protection for France and Italy against Germany.

Premier Mussolini would rather see Austria reunited with Hungary than see Austria tied up once more in an alliance with Germany. It is, therefore, no mystery why he receives Chancellor Dollfuss with open arms but maintains an impression of critical frigidity toward the overt advances of Chancellor Hitler.

Chancellor Dollfuss has gained an enthusiastic following by the sheer force of an energetic personality. Although maligned and criticized on all sides, he has won admiration by just such accomplishments as his friendship with Premier Mussolini. He was a dominant figure in London. He stands high with the governments of Great Britain and France, because they believe in the thing he is trying to do. He is established as one of the three most important political individuals in Europe—one of a triangle whose final disposition may determine whether or not Europe will go to war in this generation.

Cracking Down.

The reasons why Henry Ford is apparently reluctant to sign the code prepared for the automobile industry are Mr. Ford's secret. Until he publishes them comment on his position must remain purely speculative.

Administrator Johnson has chosen to make an issue of the case. He has declared without any apparent reservations that the Ford enterprises must qualify formally for the blue eagle or run the risk of boycott.

This is strong language. It remains to be seen whether or not it may have to be toned down. Mr. Ford is in a position to defend himself. His labor policies are defensible. He took a position for living wages and shorter hours years before the country dreamed of NRA.

It seems probable that his present stand against compliance with a code for the automobile industry is another manifestation of his established policy to run his own business and to let other manufacturers in the automobile field run theirs. He has been a lone wolf and apparently does not intend to change.

Undoubtedly, he will not let the "American people crack down on him," as Administrator Johnson threatens they may, without getting his side of the issue before the people. He is not a member of the national automobile chamber of commerce, which drew the automobile code and was designated to administer it. He has reasons for remaining outside the group. He has reasons, no doubt, for staying outside an agreement which the group's officials will administer.

Friction between members of an industry can do no good for NRA. Until Mr. Ford states his case the source of friction between his vast enterprises and others of the same type will not be known definitely. In the meantime, however, there is bound to be a general opinion that matters have been handled badly if they have brought about a situation in which an industrialist as important as Henry Ford is to be castigated publicly for failure to comply formally with policies which he himself did much to initiate.

An Incidental Problem.

Major league baseball club owners, desperate over what they know their account books will show at the end of the season, are entertaining various proposals to bring in more money. Anything which promises to increase attendance is assured of a hearing.

One plan receiving a significant amount of attention would bring National and American league clubs together for games in the middle of the season. Frankly, its purpose would be to capitalize on the interest of the fans in the comparative strength of the two circuits. Instead of determining the point with one world series, there would be a number of secondary world series. Every club, regardless of success in its own league, would have an opportunity to work against clubs in the other league.

Into the discussion Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit club in the American league, has injected a strong note of good sense. Navin does not deny that something needs to be done to restore profits. He does deny, however, that there is anything in the situation to warrant the belief that baseball is failing to make money because it fails to attract interest. He believes, in short, that it is not the game which needs fixing, but the times.

Attendance in baseball parks has fallen off no more than attendance in theaters. Recovery will come with an upswing in spending power. In the meantime, nothing should be done in desperation which might be regretted when attendance begins to increase again. There may be merit in a proposal to play inter-league games in August, for instance, but unless it is merit which will make money when times get better it is not worth trying as an emergency measure.

To a greater extent than is the rule in most other games, baseball can afford to worship the status quo. It has proved itself in many profitable seasons without any radical changes. The two major leagues have proved themselves in a method of competition which has been eminently satisfactory. Anny proposition to alter arrangements as a bait for business which cannot be obtained until there is more money to spend should be examined carefully.

Comment of the Press

HAZARDOUS BUSINESS.

William F. Wood, wealthy, whose mother was William Howard Taft's sister, was in the custody of a kidnaper for four days in California. The kidnaper, Jennings, heavily armed, escorted Wood about the busy streets of San Francisco, compelled him to go to a bank and obtain his safe deposit box well filled with valuable securities. Jennings had squirrel-like craving for nuts. He stopped at a fruit stand to buy some and was off guard for an instant. Wood called to a policeman. In an ensuing pistol battle the policeman and an innocent woman bystander were wounded. Kidnaper Jennings was killed instantly.

Other news items from the east and the west indicate that the snatch racket is becoming tougher and more hazardous. In Hartford, Conn., five arrests have been made in a roundup of members of a kidnaping ring. Four men, under arrest, will be tried in Oklahoma City on kidnaping charges. They are accused in the $200,000 Charles F. Urschel case.

In Springfield, Mass., a plot to kidnap a wealthy citizen was frustrated by state authorities.

Other kidnapers will read, ponder, adopt new methods or quit business before they are retired by a bullet or prison sentence.—Toledo Blade.

UNFORTUNATE CONFUSION.

The United States is progressing toward the uniform traffic law ideal, but the rate of advance seems discouragingly slow. The only universal traffic rule existing today, according to a recent survey of the American Automobile association, is the one outlawing the hit-and-run driver. Next to this is the license regulation. An autoist who displays a tag from his home state is free to travel anywhere in the nation, except that if he stays more than 10 days in Iowa, Texas or Utah he must obtain a temporary permit.

On no other rule of the road do the laws of all states agree. Eleven states even permit drivers to pass trolleys which are taking on or discharging passengers in the open street. The variety in speed limits illustrates the general confusion. Nineteen states, including Michigan, impose no mile-per-hour limit, but demand reasonable and proper driving which permits the autoist to stop within the clear distance ahead. Thirteen states set 45 miles an hour as the maximum, eight fix upon 40 miles an hour, while the limits in the other eight vary from 25 to 50 miles an hour.

Taking it all in all, the existing situation reflects very little credit on the good sense of the average American legislature, or of the average voter, either, for that matter.—Detroit Free Press.

NO CRITICISM.

Letting contracts for those 37 new ships should provide a lot of idle men with jobs and will not hurt the American navy a bit.—Chicago News.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Hiccough May Be Warning.

"Oh, I have the hiccoughs, slap me on the back," is a remark often overheard. A slap on the back may be sufficient to stop a simple hiccough. If this measure fails there are many other suggestions that will be quickly offered to the sufferer.

As a rule, hiccoughs will last for a few minutes and subside regardless of what measures are taken for its relief. But occasionally a severe attack of hiccough is reported. The attack may last for weeks. Such a case was reported in the newspapers recently. The victim suffered from hiccough for more than twenty-one days.

Hiccough is a spasm caused by contraction of the diaphragm. It is brought about by an irritation of the nerves that supply the diaphragm and other muscles to be used in breathing. It commonly follows excessive irritation of the stomach, and is especially liable to occur after a heavy meal. It is believed by some authorities to be caused by an infection and involvement of these nerves. The infection can be traced to a diseased liver, gallbladder, stomach, or of the tonsils or teeth.

Occasionally it is encountered in a patient who has recently undergone an abdominal operation. For example, it may be a complication that sets in within twenty-four hours after a diseased appendix or gallbladder has been removed. It may be a sign o fsome severe disorder of the body involving the central nervous system. It is often a symptom of hysteria, epilepsy, shock, tumors or injuries of the brain.

Hiccough is sometimes seen in children. Here it is usually traced to a chilling of the body, gas pressure or other digestive disturbance. To prevent hiccough in children, instruct the child to eat slowly and carefully. Rest after meals for a half hour is advisable. Daily bowel evacuation is essential. Omit from the diet all irritating foods.

In severe cases of hiccough it is always best to consult with a physician. When persisten. hiccough is neglected, it becomes difficult to cure. At times it is necessary to resort to mild anaesthesia, or the use of a hypodermic injection of some strong sedative to control the spasms of the diaphragm.

Bear in mind that persistent hiccough may be a warning sign of some disturbance in the body. The irritation may be due to some disorder of the lungs, or the pleura, the covering of the lungs, or it may be in the liver, stomach or other organ located below the diaphragm. Repeated attacks of hiccough are nature's way of warning. Take heed of this sign.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

IN OHIO WHEN LINCOLN WAS BORN.

When Abraham Lincoln was born near Hodgenville, Ky., in 1809, Ohio was a state seven years old. If Ohio had been as near as Indiana was, when Thomas Lincoln moved from Kentucky, he would probably have come to this state. From Hodgenville to his new home in Spencer county, Indiana, was not more than 50 miles, and distance was an important matter to Thomas Lincoln.

Samuel Huntington was then governor of Ohio, Jeremiah McLene was secretary of state, William McFarland state treasurer, Benjamin Hough, auditor, Joseph Kerr adjutant general, and Thomas Scott, Thomas Morris, W. W. Irvin and Francis Dunlavy judges of the supreme court. Duncan McArthur, later governor, was then speaker of the senate.

It was the day of small things in Ohio. At this session of the legislature, the salary of the governor was fixed at $900, with a like amount for the contingent expenses of his office. The secretary of state was paid $500 a year; the members of the supreme court $1,000 a year; and members of the legislature two dollars a day.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Aug. 31—Apparently, at least one of the G. O. P. leaders is getting a bit impatient at the campaign of silence now being waged by his party and intends to do something about it.

He is Senator Dickinson. The white-haired Iowan, who entered the senate in 1931 after long service in the house, is not a great believer in such things as political truces.

There has been a conspicuous difference between the Republican strategy following the smashing Roosevelt victory last November and that pursued by the Democrats four years ago.

Democratic Chairman Raskob established headquarters in Washington, brought Charlie Michelson in, and launched one of the most vigorous publicity offensives against the G. O. P. ever known before.

• • •

Everett Sanders of the Republican national committee has a publicity set-up in his headquarters here, headed by J. Cal O'Laughlin, a veteran newspaperman, but the Republican idea seems to be that a policy of watchful waiting is the best.

The necessary machinery has been installed to take advantage of possible Democratic blunders and the breaks in the political game. The economic situation and the popular prestige of President Roosevelt at present hold them in check.

Not so with Senator Dickinson. In the 1932 campaign he was entrusted with the task of seeing that 12 Republican senators were elected in the central states. When the Republican senatorial elections committee for 1934 is set up, he'll play an important part.

There are 17 Republican senators who must stand for reelection next year.

• • •

So, in Chicago, the other day, Dickinson made a speech that might well be put down as defining some of the issues that will be fought out in the congressional elections of next year.

"Recovery in industry," said the senator, "will be more certain and business more stable if permitted to return to its old channels of activity."

Referring to the present governmental expenditures, he said expected income will not be adequate to meet them.

Currency stabilization, he said, is an all-important factor."

And, he concluded, as an umpire in economic disputes, the government will be either "politely ignored or driven from the field by a non bottle barrage of conflict of interests."

Rhyming Optimist

BY ALINE MICHAELIS

OVERTURE.

She heard the pulsing harmony
Of harp and violin;
Sat breathless while the flute's clear notes
Kept weaving out and in.

The measures grew more full and strong
With clarinet and horn,
Till in her mind a moving tale
Of love and hope was born.

The cellos and the oboes sang
Of happenings yet to be;
She sat with joyous heart entranced
By floods of melody.

She was so young, so unaware
Of all life's toil and dream;
For of her years no overture
Revealed one hint, one gleam!

MOLDING THE FUTURE.

Much has been said and written during the past 15 years about the honesty of the young people of today, their frank acceptance of facts, their ability to face reality. They have been heralded as something new, youngsters who will remold the world along safer, saner lines.

I imagine that every age has said somewhat the same thing, and that about the same proportion of fine men and women have sprung up from each generation to join the ranks of the sane and honest minority. But so active has been the advertising in this day of high-pressure salesmanship that a large number of spurious articles have come to be classed among the genuine.

Discussion of facts is not the same as acceptance. True, these children discuss everything with an air of omniscience which often masks fear and ignorance. They have tried to remove mystery from the world, and in its place have found confusion. Many of them have assumed a hard-boiled cynicism which makes them scorn the emotional reactions of humanity, until, it is to be hoped, they will succumb to romance and become normal.

What reality do they face? Sickness, birth, death, except in its most violent forms, they know nothing about. These phases of life are, where possible, kept from them behind the doors of hospitals and nursing homes. Many of them are afraid of the real facts of life because they are unpleasant, and as far as possible shirk responsibilities.

These may not be our children—yours and mine—but they are representative of a large number of the young people on whom the hopes of the world rest. They are not fitted to remold the world—for they lack sympathy, feeling for others, tolerance, unselfishness—the old, familiar virtues which never change.

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 31 — Katherine Brush now occupies the most elaborate study of any novelist in the world. It adjoins her duplex apartment in the fashionable Sutton Place area on East 57th street and was the last bit of interior decoration done by the late Joseph Urban.

It is circular, with ceiling to floor frosted windows and the color scheme is green and black, although paneling O. O. McIntyre is of polished California redwood all treated ultra modernistic. Miss Brush's desk is semi-circular, five feet wide and eighteen feet from tip to tip. There is a row of varitinted typewriters.

Also a huge open fire place. The meticulous army of filing cabinets is a rebuke for the usual disarray of an author's desk. I noticed the various listings included: "Published articles, Next novels, Current novel, Story ideas and Story beginnings.

The study is air-conditioned and the circular center rug green tipped with black. Two upright lamps grace either side of the room with a huge cornucopia shaped chandelier hanging center. One door leads up a circular chromium stairway to the writer's secretary, a cheery room in the same motif.

Ethel Watters, colored chanter, is the most popular offering of the moment at afternoon teas and is the highest priced, reputedly $200 each for such performances. The singer is dusky brown with straight black hair, beady bright eyes and generous mouth. The piece de resistance of her tea programs is "Stormy Weather." She usually arrives in one of many chocolate colored gowns, driving her own Lincoln. And with her maid.

Suave monologist-magician Fred Keating, as "Time" would say, is doing his part to offset those ads exposing tricks of magicians. But the truth is many established illusions of professional prestidigitators have had to be abandoned as result of the ads.

Lucius Beebe, who ferrets out delightful spots for his one leisurely meal of the week, Sunday breakfast, has two favorites—the veranda on the river side of Claremont Inn with its morning view of Ivy hills, and the corner dining room of the Plaza. From the latter's windows one may see all the riders in Central Park and the top-hatted deacons and swells on the way to St. Thomas's pass in review.

Incidentally, Saturday afternoon Turkish baths at the Biltmore are a favored diversion of New York politicians. All the magistrates go there and Al Smith and Jim Farley are often discernible through mist of the steam rooms.

A crippled boy friend of a Tenth avenue tenement is leading an exciting life these days. Someone brought him a fledgling sparrow—a sparrow that fell!—from the sidewalk outside his window. A cage was constructed in his room. Next morning the flutter at his window pane was the mother bird, with all the maternal instinct of its kind, seeking admittance. It was admitted, flew to the birdling's side and fed it from the food outside the cage. Now it comes twice daily for the feeding. Feeds itself, too, and goes away. And a lonely life is brightened.

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN BOWLAND.

AS HUSBANDS GO, TODAY.

Man is a queer animal. He'll forgive a woman for turning a gun on him—but never for turning a joke on him; for making him jealous, but never for being jealous; for running away from him—but never for running after him.

• • •

There is no trick about "finding the way to a man's heart," these days; the feat is to make him let you in, when you've found it.

• • •

A man enjoys being "mothered" now and then, but he secretly resents the espionage of a wife who watches his diet as an alienist watches a suspect, and rushes for the aspirin every time he sneezes.

• • •

When a woman tells a man that she is "through, forever," she should at least have the self-restraint to wait until next morning before calling him up, to say that she "didn't mean it."

Aviation won't seem so wonderful to a married woman, when it reaches that point where a man can say, "Bye, darling. Just running over to Scotland for a little golf. Don't keep dinner waiting."

• • •

Probably women change husbands so often simply because "the ills we know not of" always seem so much more endurable than those which face us, across the breakfast table, every morning.

• • •

Whenever I hear a man of 30 cynically deploring the fact that he'll probably die single, because he can't find an ideal woman to marry, I shiver to think what easy game he'll be, at 50, for some fluffy little gold-digger, with a baby lisp, a weak chin and a dimple in place of a brain.

• • •

The bonds of wedlock soon depreciate, unless somebody keeps up the interest—and the woman is usually elected for that job.

Husbands and clocks don't exactly "make the world go 'round"—but, somhow, a woman feels as though it would come to a dead stop without them.—Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Permits to ship 1,000 pigs Saturday and 500 Monday from Marion under the federal government's program to rid the market of a surplus of hogs were received today by Jerald E. Miller, manager of the Marion County Livestock cooperative association. No shipments will be made until Saturday, he said.

Gasco Hammers Out Second City Series Victory

WHITCUM RAKED FOR NINE HITS AS INDUS CHAMPIONS WIN, 6-3

Eight Walks and Three Errors Aid in Downfall of Methodists.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

Those usually puzzling tosses which Maury Whitcum serves up for the Epworth Seniors were no mystery yesterday to that group of ball players who parade under the banner of the Ohio Fuel Gas company and the Industrial league champions breezed through to their second consecutive triumph in the Little World series. The score was 6-3 and marked the first defeat in the series for the Methodists. Epworth will now be called on to meet the First Presbyterians Friday in a game which will see one of the two eliminated both having won one and lost one.

As has been already indicated the Gasco club didn't have much difficulty in cracking up the victory over the Methodists swinging their heavy bats with all the gusto which carried them through the regular season to the Indus loop pennant, the utilities combine slammed out nine hits off Whitcum and generally made life miserable for the Epworth twirler by pounding his offerings all over the lot. Mitchell, making his first start of the series in left field, led the assault with three safe hits in four trips to the plate. Mitchell also scored two of the Gasco runs.

Eight Free Tickets

Just as though nine safe hits which rattled off the Gasco bludgeons would not have been enough to have kept the Industrial leaguers out in front, Epworth made the going even easier by throwing in some assistance in the way of fielding misplays and free tickets to first base. Three errors were chalked up against the No. 2 church league titlists and all three had a hand in the Gasco scoring. Maury Whitcum, not in possession of his usual control, started eight Gasco batters on their way around the circuit by sending them to first base on passes.

The Gasco rushed right out in the first inning and dispelled any doubt concerning their ability to hit Whitcum's tosses by pounding out a pair of hits and making them good for three runs. A pair of errors, one by Whitcum and the other by Ballenger at first base, along with one walk, helped the Gasco mark up the three scores.

Epworth Stopped

That three-run lead was all Dale Schwaderer asked for the first four innings as he set the Methodists down hitless. Schwaderer blasted his fast ball by the Methodists in fine form for those first four frames, not one of them getting anything which even faintly resembled a hit.

Maury Whitcum finally broke the hitless treak for Epworth in the fifth inning when he beat out an infield hit between first and second. Epworth didn't score that inning but the minor uprising apparently tipped the Gasco off that it would be a good plan to get some more runs up on the board. Consequently the big guns roared into action again in the last half of the fifth and blasted out two more tallies.

Subsequent events proved the Gasco did the right thing by getting those markers in the fifth for the Methodists launched an uprising all their own in the sixth and carried it over into the seventh. An uprising, it might be recorded, which for a time threatened to jerk the game out of the Gasco's bag and hand it over to the Epworth nine. Dale Schwaderer, however, had just enough left to survive the rally and stop the Methodists before they could go too far.

EARNSHAW "FIRED"

GEORGE EARNSHAW

'Don't Need You' Connie Advises One-Time Star

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA Pa., Aug. 31—Trouble comes double for George Earnshaw, one-time ace hurler of the Athletics in his latest difficulty with Manager Connie Mack.

"Retired" from the American competition for the rest of the year, Earnshaw disclosed he also has been specifically requested to stay away from Shibe park and his team mates.

In the suburban home where he found his only ray of sunshine in a crib containing 12-day-old Elizabeth Earnshaw, the right hander declared last night that Mack's letter from St. Louis notifying him of his "retirement" came "like a bolt out of the blue."

"He wrote that he wouldn't need me for the rest of the season," Earnshaw said. "He asked me to take my stuff out of the clubhouse and wrote that he'd appreciate it if I'd stay away from the ball park."

"I haven't any fault to find with Mr. Mack. I don't know why he doesn't want me to pitch, but I guess he has his reasons," Earnshaw said.

"I'd like to stay in baseball. I'm in fine shape and I'm going to stay in shape. I don't know if they're going to trade me or ask waivers, but I'm not crossing any bridges until I come to them."

Earnshaw will continue to draw his pay until the end of the season.

From Syracuse came word that Mack would be found in a receptive mood if any club wants to make a deal for Earnshaw during the winter. "I don't think he will ever wear an Athletic uniform again," he was quoted as saying.

VINES RUNS INTO UNEXPECTED BUMPS

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 31—Elisworth Vines' "comeback" trail continues full of unexpected bumps.

Buffeted around in singles this years Vines also is experiencing reverses in doubles in partnership with Keith Gledhill.

First it was the loss of their national title last week and yesterday it was their setback in the 15th annual east-west matches.

With three singles and two doubles matches to be played in the windup of the event today, the east had a 3 to 1 lead and seemed assured of at least two victories today to reverse the outcome of last year's tourney.

BOSTON DIGS IN FOR CRUCIAL CONFLICT WITH PACE SETTERS

Braves Start Six-Game Series Half Dozen Notches Out of First.

By The Associated Press

Baseball's deep and abiding passion—a truly "crucial" series—gripped Boston and the National league today as Billy Terry's New York Giants ran their pennant chances into the gauntlet of the second place Braves.

The Giants brought a full six-game lead to Braves field, normally a discouraging outlook for the home folks, but it's been many a long and stormy season since any Boston club could thrill the faithful with a threat even that close.

They play six games in four days and therein lies Boston's stoutest hopes.

Pitchers Rested

Bill McKechnie's advantage, if there is any, lies in the fact that his strongest pitchers are rested and ready.

Only Carl Hubbell, the brilliant southpaw and Freddie Fitzsimmons, the fat right hander, have maintained their top pitching form for Terry in the bruising series just closed with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Setting the scene for the start of today's big battle, the Giants outbelted the Cards, 5 to 4, yesterday with Hal Schumacher showing signs of wear and tear as he staggered home victorious in a duel with Dizzy Dean. Meanwhile the Braves, regaining their stride, knocked down the Reds 3 to 2, to even the series as Huck Betts turned in at neat five-hit performance.

St. Louis ran up a lead of 4 to 0 on Schumacher, who was beaten by the Cards Monday, before the Giants' long range guns got into action. Bill Terry hit a home run after Hughie Critz singled for the first hit off Dean in the fourth. Then Mel Ott singled and Lefty O'Doul smashed his fourteenth homer of the season into the right-field stands.

Maranville Wins Game

The impish figure of Walter James Vincent (Rabbit) Maranville, going on 42, struck out all over the Braves conquest of the Reds to even the series. The waggish little man they call "Schoolboy" pumped a single over first to score Pinkey Whitney with the winning run in the ninth.

The Pittsburgh Pirates edged almost unbeknownst into third place by two point margin through taking the fourth straight from the Phillies 5 to 1 while the Cubs slipped to fourth, splitting a doubleheader with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Charlie Root edged Hollis Thurston to give the Cubs the first 2 to 1 but Rosy Ryan, in relief, held the Cubs in the second as a rookie shortstop, Linus Frey, drove in four runs in the Dodger victory 7 to 3.

No games were scheduled in the American league.

ALL "WASHED UP"

BABE RUTH

Legs Are Gone, Babe Ready To Hang Up Spikes

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—The habit of writing finis to Babe Ruth's baseball career, a popular winter pastime for years now has extended to the home run king himself.

"I guess I might as well hang up my spikes," he said mournfully last night. "I can't sign up as a player next year. The legs won't stand it. I might get by at first base but not in the outfield. I'm through."

While the boys have been guessing him into the management of either the White Sox or the Red Sox next season, Ruth knows nothing about it.

"That's up to several other people besides myself," he said. "I'm still the property of the Yankees. If another club wanted me for manager, they would have to make some sort of a deal with Col. Rupert. It's up to the owners of the other clubs. I haven't been approached, even unofficially, by anyone."

The Babe then had another idea. "Maybe I'll just voluntarily retire for a year. I could stand a long vacation and then see how things work out in 1935."

He'd like to go to Bermuda and Mrs. Ruth would prefer Europe. The Babe guessed they'd probably compromise on Europe.

Experiments at the United States Department of Agriculture have indicated that foods contain more vitamin A when fresh, longer and do not become rancid as soon when stored in glass green or black paper than when other colored wrappings are used.

18 INDIANS FANNED BY MINOR LEAGUER

Zanesville Portsider, Not Yet 20, Beats Tribe in Exhibition.

By The Associated Press

ZANESVILLE, O., Aug. 31—Eighteen strikeouts—that shows what young Albert Milnar pitcher for the Zanesville Mid-Atlantic Greys, thinks of big league batters.

Milnar, who hasn't reached his twentieth birthday yet, fanned 18 under the arc lights last night when his team defeated the Cleveland Indians, 7 to 2. Every Indian except Roy Spencer, veteran catcher, struck out at least once when Milnar burned curves and fast ones across the plate.

A Cleveland sandlotter last year, Milnar is the Indians' property and may provide them before long with southpaw pitching they've been looking for.

He allowed only three hits during the game one a homer by Earl Averill with a man on base.

NELSON VICTOR IN TORONTO MARATHON

By The Associated Press

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 31—Winning Canada's annual 15-mile swim in Lake Ontario was getting to be a habit today with Marvin Nelson, brawny distance champion from Fort Dodge, Ia.

He won the event for the second time yesterday, becoming the first man in the history of the grind to repeat.

He clipped more than 19 minutes from the course record by ploughing the distance in seven hours, 37 2-5 seconds.

Nelson's victory enriched him by $5000 the first prize. A half-mile back in second place came Bill Goll, of New York, to win $1,500 with Frank Pritchard of Buffalo, winning third place and $700. Fourth place and $500 went to Harry Clancy of Cincinnati, with Stanley Pritchard, brother of Frank, taking fifth and $200.

THREE TIED FOR TOP IN TOURNEY

Three golfers, R. LaMarche, W. Schaffner and R. Metzger finished in a tie for honors yesterday in a hand bogey tournament held in connection with a stag party at the Marion Country club. All had scores of 85.

Paul Austin turned in the most sixes for the tourney with 11. Dr. O. M. Young led with sevens with seven. Dr. E. L. Brady had the low score for the round, 87 and high score went to P. Guthery with 119.

BRITON WILL FACE FORMER CONQUERER

New Jersey Girl Given Little Chance To Repeat Previous Victory.

By The Associated Press

EXMOOR, HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 31—On the same trim shoulders of the 21-year-old New Jersey girl, who halted the title march of England's Enid Wilson at Salem, last year, rested the hopes of America today in the national women's golf championship.

A year ago, Charlotte Glutting of West Orange, stopped Miss Wilson in the quarter finals with a surprising one-up triumph that insured the championship's retention by America. Today, she faced the English champion in the same round but the galleryites, who have watched the tall blonde from the hills of Nottingham break the medal record and sweep through her American foes, didn't give the American girl a chance of repeating.

Action aplenty was promised at Exmoor today with the Wilson-Glutting match and three other duels that involved the defending champion and six other front ranking stars of American women's golf.

DEFENDING TITLIST LOSES IN TOURNEY

Mrs. Ross Fogle Beats Mrs. Sam Sharrock in Mar-O-Del Club.

The elimination of the defending champion in one match and a 20-hole battle in the other marked the semi-finals of the women's club championship tournament at the Mar-O-Del club yesterday.

Mrs. Sam Sharrock, the defending titlist, was eliminated by Mrs. Ross Fogle by a 4-3 margin. Miss Mary Titsworth was the victor in the other semi-final match defeating Mrs. William Klauss, one up in 20 holes. The match was even at the end of the regulation 18 and the two halved the 19th hole before Miss Titsworth finally won it on the 20th.

The championship match between Miss Titsworth and Mrs. Ross Fogle will be played Friday afternoon. It will go 18 holes.

CHICAGO BEARS TO HAVE NEW COACH

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 — George Halas, president of the Bears, one of Chicago's two National league football clubs, will coach the team this year, replacing Ralph Jones, under whom the title was won last year.

Jones resigned to return to Lake Forest as athletic director and coach. Halas, a former University of Illinois star, coached the Bears until Jones was signed two years ago. He has been connected with the management of the club since its organization.

COLUMBUS CLINCHES ASSOCIATION FLAG BY TWO-WAY TRIUMPH

Mickey Heath Hits Three Home Runs in First Game.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 31—Except for the presence of Joe Hauser, of the American association, Ha. Trosky, young Toledo outfielder, would be considered quite a socker of home runs.

In yesterday's doubleheader with Indianapolis Trosky rammed out a circuit drive in each game to boost his total to 30, a lot of home runs but not so many by comparison with Hauser's 62. The Indians scored three runs in the ninth inning to win the opener, 4 to 3, but the Mud Hens came back in the nightcap for a 10 to 3 decision.

Mickey Heath, the Columbus Red Birds' first baseman, equaled the often attained association record of three home runs in a single game in the front end of a doubleheader with Louisville. Heath hit over the right field wall all three times off Ken Penner pitching.

The Birds won 8 to 0, behind Jim Winford's good pitching, and came back to take the second when Ernie Borgman stole home in the ninth inning, 4 to 3. The victims were Columbus' 91st and 92nd of the season.

Minneapolis outhit Kansas City, 14 to 11, in a night game, but the Blues won 4 to 3. Harry Holsclaw and Walter Hilscher divided the pitching for the Millers, while Hobo Carson went all the way for Kansas City.

FARMER OF FOREST HANGS SELF IN BARN

Body of Jay Callahan Found After Search of Several Hours.

Special to The Star

FOREST, Aug. 31—Despondency was given as the cause for the suicide of Jay Callahan, 41, well-to-do farmer of five miles west of here on the Lincoln highway, yesterday in the barn of his farm home. Richard Rose, a neighbor boy, found the body hanging from a rafter, after a searching party had spent the afternoon loooking for Mr. Callahan. According to his widow, Mrs. Stella Wittenmeyer Callahan to whom he was married Monday, Mr. Callahan left the house about 8:30 a. m. yesterday and did not return for lunch. She became worried and the search was started. The Hancock county coroner was called and gave a verdict of death by hanging. Mr. Callahan was born and lived all of his life on the Hancock county farm where he ended his life. He leaves no one except the widow. The funeral will be conducted Saturday at 10 a. m. at the Union Chapel church near the Callahan home with Rev. Bowman of Findlay officiating. Burial will be made in the Hueston cemetery.

Boy's Good Luck Gives Inspiration to Others

When "slicking" up time comes at Father Flanagan's boys' home in Omaha, Boyd Canterbury (left) and William Dobbs (right) and all the other boys there respond eagerly. Neatness and politeness pay, they agree, thinking of Peter Christopolus (lower left), whose picture, printed in the home magazine, resulted in his adoption by a wealthy couple.

• • •

By The Associated Press

OMAHA, Neb. — A new high in boyish politeness is being recorded at Father Flanagan's boys' home here.

Where deportment formerly was good among 200 otherwise homeless lads, it now reaches "double A" rating.

And it's all the result of the happy experience of Peter Christopolus, a ward taken from the home and adopted by a wealthy family of Patterson, N. J. Peter's rise has inspired other boys at the home.

Peter a Year in Home

Peter, at 14, never had known any home but an orphanage, when a year ago he became a ward at the boys' home where homeless youths are schooled in books and trades.

Because of his good record, Peter's picture was published in the home's monthly magazine. In far-away New Jersey the picture was seen by Jean Strengs, a wealthy silk dyer.

In Peter he saw a resemblance to his son who had drowned only a year before—so that after the necessary formalities, the youngster was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Strengs.

Now Everybody's Polite

Immediately the rest of the boys at the home sensed opportunity. Exceptional politeness has become the rule.

"And it's all because of what happened to Peter," explains Mrs. W. L. Maus, an official at the home. "The boys were polite and manly before—now it is merely a case of more so.

"There is an immediate incentive for their readiness with the toothbrush, then hair-slicking, and the 'pleases' and 'thank yous' which punctuate their conversations.

Merit System Used

"We use a merit system in publishing pictures of the boys in our magazine. And now, after Peter's good fortune, all the boys are eager to have their pictures used."

Among the lads using combs, brushes and toothbrushes most industriously is William Dobbs, 13, one of Peter's best pals. William's chum now is Boyd Canterbury, 10.

But the boys are not yearning to be adopted into wealthy homes—they figure that is too much to expect.

All they ask is a permanent home with a fair chance to face the world and its problems on an equal footing with other boys.

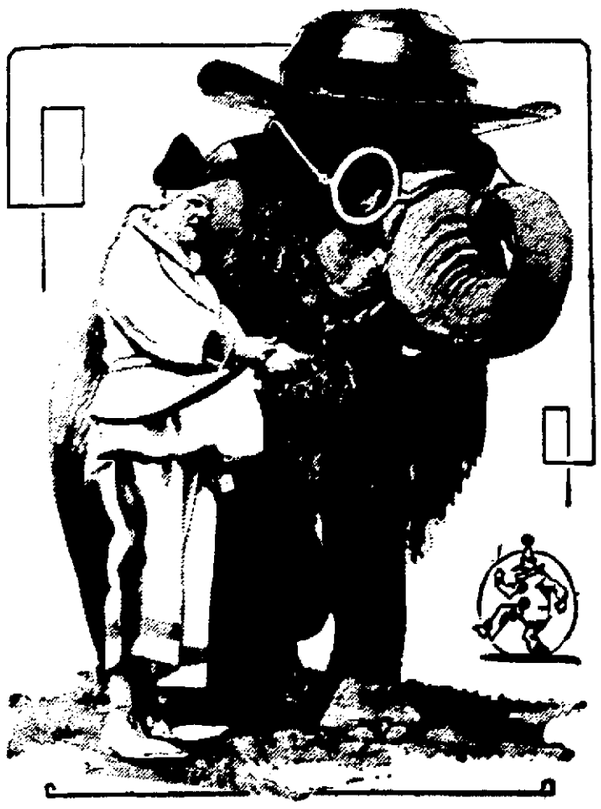
CLOWN ELEPHANT DOES SKIP - DANCE



MICKY M'DONALD AND "JOEL"

Of the many funny clown skits in the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, coming to Marion on Thursday, Sept. 7, probably the most talented, is that of Mickey McDonald, and "Joel," one of the clown elephants, in their impersonation of the Hebrew. In this, the huge pachyderm will be seen doing the Hebrew shuffle-step, one of the most difficult things ever known taught an elephant.

The audiences never fail to respond with roars of laughter and applause, as the pair proceed around the full length of the great hippodrome track.

There are 65 theaters with the huge show this season, and all are of national reputation. A eleven band of 35 pieces is another of the outstanding circus features.

BAR QUESTIONS CRIME FIGHT

Federal Plan Causes Barristers To Revive Issue of States' Rights.

DEATH PENALTY FLAYED

Attorneys, Meeting in Michigan, See Other Punishment as More Effective.

By The Associated Press

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 31—The old issue of states rights, raised by the disclosure of revolutionary federal plans to crush the underworld, pushed itself to the foreground as the American Bar association assembled for the second session of its annual convention here today.

The constitutional question, which has been a subject of cloak room debate since the first delegates arrived, came to a head late yesterday as a result of the proposal of Pat Malloy, assistant United States attorney general, of a huge federalized police force which would mobilize all federal, state, county and municipal law enforcement officers in a nationwide war on crime.

Bar Opposes Plan

In answer to the suggestion the bar today indicated it would not sanction any plan of fighting crime which entailed the setting aside of constitutional prerogatives and the jurisdiction of the courts.

Malloy appeared at his own request. After he had outlined his far-reaching program he heard the convention applaud Dean Justin Miller, of the Duke university law school, when, in response to cries from the floor of "answer him!" the latter remarked that "when the official steps outside the law and the courts he provides the criminal with his greatest protection and defense."

These developments focussed extraordinary interest on the appearance before the convention tonight of United States Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, who, Malloy told the association, approved the plans for the federalized police force.

Dean Miller presented the report of the section on criminal laws. When the demand went up that he answer Malloy he said he preferred to be guided by the earlier remarks of Judge John J. Parker, of the fourth U. S. circuit court of appeals. Judge Parker had pleaded for adherence to constitutional principles in recovery plans.

Cooperation Urged

Dean Miller's report recommended closer cooperation among prosecuting attorneys, the courts and the police. The report declared "we do not believe the way to solve the kidnaping problem is to provide capital punishment, that there is any easy solution of racketeering, that the solution of the crime problems lies solely in rigorous prosecution and long incarceration."

Malloy termed the report "very weak," adding "it does not even mention kidnaping and racketeering." He asserted that his own program was "just as constitutional as all the codes that are being drafted for industry."

CONSUMERS' DRIVE PUSHED IN MARION

cincts but were planning second interviews with housewives, who refused the first request of the workers to sign a consumers' NRA card and post a blue eagle sticker in their homes.

Mrs. J. C. Ackerman, chairman, who is directing activities of nearly 250 women workers in the city, urged Marion residents who have not been given opportunity to sign NRA consumers' cards when the drive ends Friday to get in touch with any member of the city committee and cards and stickers will be furnished.

A Few Refusals

Workers yesterday continued to meet with some refusals, but most of these, they said, were based on misunderstanding. One woman, a worker reported, decided she didn't like the looks of the blue eagle in her window, and flatly refused to display it. Another woman refused to pledge her cooperation to the NRA because, she said, she "never signed anything."

Mrs. Grover Snyder, general chairman of the consumers' drive in Marion county, today said plans for conducting the campaign in the villages and rural sections had not been completed.

Eight hundred fifteen Marion employers had filed NRA compliance certificates at the Marion postoffice today, including six new signers reported since yesterday at noon. The new ones on the list are:

Six New Signers

Gerald Lewis, Hamilton garage, 219 East Center street; C. Walker, Klean Rite auto service, 132 East Mill street; Wilson B. Tway, president, Wilson Bohannan Co., lock manufacturer, Mound and Buckeye streets; Mrs. Hazel Johnson, grocery, 335 Davids street; R. H. Augenstein, shell filling station, 232 North Main street; Frank Lee, manager, Singer Sewing Machine Co., 140 East Center street.

Four Marion residents were among photographers from central Ohio present at a meeting in Columbus last night to discuss the code submitted to the government by the Photographers' Association of America following its annual convention at Lake Winona, Ind., a week ago. Those from Marion at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Pontius, Walter W. Weber and Adam Bauer.

The bonds were issued to finance obligations maturing Sept. 1.

Deer Trapped on Ledge Spurns All Rescue Efforts

By The Associated Press

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y., Aug. 31—A wild deer's innate distrust of man, today threatened to defeat efforts to rescue a sensitive seven-point buck from a hazardous ledge in Watkins Glen state park where he has been trapped for six days.

Although he nimbly trots back and forth along his narrow runway unconcerned while scores of visitors, attracted by his predicament watch him from the opposite side of the gorge, a few feet away, his fear of man has blocked every plan of rescue.

He becomes so terrified when approached that his would-be rescuers have to give up their efforts for fear he will leap to his death in the dashing torrent 200 feet below. It was fear of a dog that drove him and his mate into the perilous position from which he cannot escape and it was fear that caused his mate to hurl herself down into the gorge.

The big buck is skeptical about eating the luscious ears of sweet corn, one of his favorite foods because they have been placed there by man; he prefers to slake his thirst with the dew from foliage rather than drink the water lowered over the cliff to him. He spurns the bridge which was thrown across the chasm in the hope that he would venture across it to safety; most of all he fears any attempt to approach him.

Officials were considering trapping him with a net or lassoing him or possibly lowering a fence along the ledge to form a corral, if he continues to spurn their aid.

MAN IS WOUNDED, WOMAN KIDNAPED

Negroes Attack Couple in Car Parked on Road.

By The Associated Press

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 31—Miss Matherine Prince, 21, was kidnaped by two Negroes who shot her companion, Mace Carver, through the neck as they sat in an automobile on a lonely road east of Dallas last night.

Miss Prince was still missing today and a search for her body was instituted in the fear that she might have been slain.

Carver's car was found shortly after midnight. In it was his hat, the woman's purse and her hat. Carver, semi-conscious, was found at the side of a road and was taken to a Dallas hospital where his condition was critical.

BASE PRICE OF GAS TO BE FIXED BY U. S.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—A base price of between five and six cents a gallon for gasoline at wholesale at the refinery was understood today in authoritative sources to be planned by the administration as one of the first major steps toward stabilizing the oil industry under its NRA code.

This would make the price of crude oil run from $1 upward, in accordance with the price control ratio formula in the code.

IMPROPER LICENSE CHARGED BY POLICE

Yoder was arrested last night at 8:30. Authorities said he has been operating two automobiles, one of them a truck, with one set of plates and to have transferred the plates from one vehicle to the other.

Men Will Cook and Make Beds at O.W.U. House

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Aug. 31—The old adage concerning too many cooks spoiling the broth will receive a new slant at Ohio Wesleyan university here this year.

A cooperative house for men students, the first of its kind on the Ohio Wesleyan campus will feature cooking by the men themselves. Each of the 20 men who will live in the house must do his share of the cooking, as well as make his own bed, do his own laundry and aid in keeping the house in tip-top condition from cellar to attic.

Object of the new house is to assist needy students to stay in college who otherwise would have to remain at home, according to Dr. Edmund D. Soper, president. The house will begin operation by mid-September since classes begin Sept. 20.

House mother for the cooperative abode will be Miss Cora Murphy, for many years a member of Ohio Wesleyan's faculty.

"BLOND TIGRESS" GIVEN 199 YEARS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 31—Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, called the "blond tigress" by police because of her alleged participation in holdups, was under a 199-year prison sentence today following her conviction on a charge of murder in connection with the recent slaying of Gustave Hoeh, 71, in his haberdashery.

Mrs. Jarman's companions, George Dale, her alleged sweetheart, and Leo Minneci were convicted at the same time. Dale, accused of being the actual slayer, was sentenced to death in the electric chair, while Minneci received a 199-year prison sentence when a jury in criminal court returned its verdict last night.

VANDERBILT NOW MATRIMMAL PILOT

Harold Stirling Vanderbilt, 49-year-old multi-millionaire sportsman who recently sprung a surprise on American society by marrying his old friend, the former Miss Gertrude Lewis Conaway, of Philadelphia, is the man who successfully defended the America's cup against the late Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V in 1930. If the millionaire skipper can pilot the good ship Matrimony as well as he handled the Enterprise on that occasion, the romance is assured of a happy ending. Besides the distinction of being one of the world's foremost amateur sailors, Vanderbilt also holds that of being a universal authority on bridge, having aided in framing bidding rules now in general use. The new Mrs. Vanderbilt is herself an ardent yachtswoman and noted horsewoman.

TRIANGLE IS HINTED AT LAMSON TRIAL

Witnesses Tell of Visits To Another Woman in Sacramento, Calif.

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 31—Having presented testimony suggesting the existence of "another woman" in the life of David A. Lamson, the state called upon scientific witnesses today for the last phase of its attempt to convict the young Stanford University Press representative of murdering his attractive wife, Allene.

From Dr. Frederick Proescher, county pathologist, the state expected testimony that a 10-inch length of iron pipe and bits of charred cloth taken from a bonfire which Lamson was attending in the yard of his Stanford campus home the morning of the tragedy contained evidences of blood. The prosecution contends Lamson beat his wife to death with the pipe because of domestic troubles.

Mrs. Sara Kelley, Sacramento divorcee, whom state's witnesses mentioned as Lamson's companion on his many visits to Sacramento, was one of the witnesses remaining to be called by the state.

Through numerous witnesses the state late yesterday obtained testimony that Lamson had made many visits to Sacramento from Dec. 25 to May 18, and was seen in the company of Mrs. Kelley, then an employe of a newspaper. Mrs. Hiram Johnson, a florist, said Lamson had sent a telegram ordering roses delivered to Mrs. Kelley and that they had gone into her shop several times when he purchased flowers for her.

Lamson contends his relations with Mrs. Kelly were strictly of a business nature as they were working together on an advertising scheme.

85 FARMERS AT CROP MEET

Federal Agent Explains Crop Production Plan To Martel Gathering.

An educational meeting in connection with the government's program of wheat acreage reduction at the Martel school last night was attended by 85 farmers from Tully and Scott townships.

Application blanks were given 70 of the farmers by R. H. Gilbert, emergency agricultural assistant for Marion county. These blanks will be turned in at an organization meeting Sept. 13 at Kirkpatrick for Tully and Scott township farmers. Organization meetings for the other communities in the county also are scheduled within the next few weeks.

Gilbert was assisted last night by H. G. Gibboney, vocational agriculture instructor at the Martel school, J. L. Shoemaker, temporary committeeman for Tully township and W. H. Knowles, temporary committeeman for Scott township.

Tonight an educational meeting will be held at the Meeker school for farmers of Grand township and that part of Big Island township southwest of the Harding Highway and north of state route 95.

Friday night the final meeting of this type will be held in the auditorium of the Marion National bank building for farmers of Marion township. The next series of meetings will be for the purpose of organizing permanent community and county committees, to be followed by a third series, Gilbert said, when contracts for reducing acreage will be filled out.

THAT REMINDS ME OF SOMEONE WE KNOW! MR. SPICE!

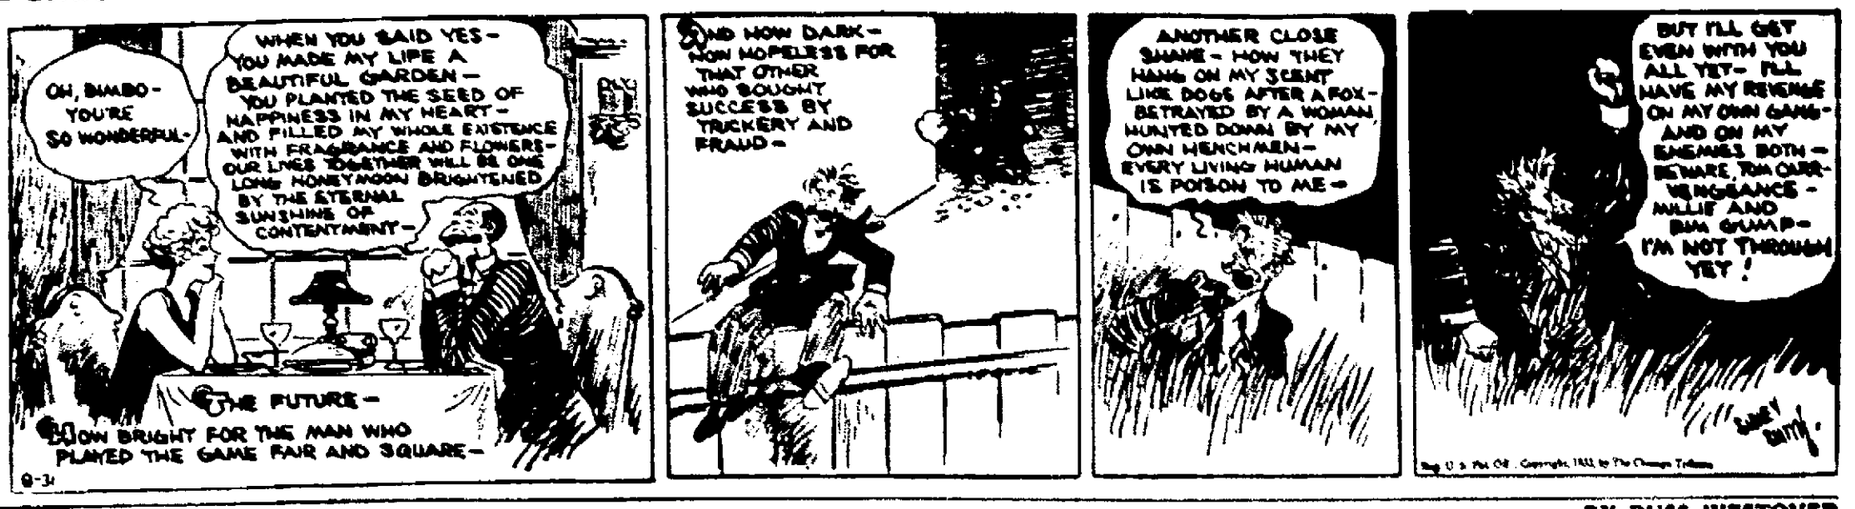
THE GUMPS — BY SIDNEY SMITH



OH, BIMBO—YOU'RE SO WONDERFUL—
WHEN YOU SAID YES—YOU MADE MY LIFE A BEAUTIFUL GARDEN—YOU PLANTED THE SEED OF HAPPINESS IN MY HEART—AND FILLED MY WHOLE EXISTENCE WITH FRAGRANCE AND FLOWERS—OUR LIVES TOGETHER WILL BE ONE LONG HONEYMOON BRIGHTENED BY THE ETERNAL SUNSHINE OF CONTENTMENT—
THE FUTURE—
HOW BRIGHT FOR THE MAN WHO PLAYED THE GAME FAIR AND SQUARE—
AND HOW DARK—HOW HOPELESS FOR THAT OTHER WHO SOUGHT SUCCESS BY TRICKERY AND FRAUD—
ANOTHER CLOSE SHAVE—HOW THEY HANG ON MY SCENT LIKE DOGS AFTER A FOX—BETRAYED BY A WOMAN, HUNTED DOWN BY MY OWN HENCHMEN—EVERY LIVING HUMAN IS POISON TO ME—
BUT I'LL GET EVEN WITH YOU ALL YET—I'LL HAVE MY REVENGE ON MY OWN GANG—AND ON MY ENEMIES BOTH—BEWARE, I'M OUR—VENGEANCE—MILLIE AND BIM GUMP—I'M NOT THROUGH YET!

TILLIE THE TOILER — BY RUSS WESTOVER

JUS' BECAUSE HE WAS BORN'D IN DEMONIA DON'T GIVE 'EM RIGHTS TO TAKE HIM BACK.
THIS CHILD WAS BORN WITH SEVEN MOLES ON HIS BACK—TO THE DEMONIANS THAT MEANS GOOD LUCK—THEY WANT TO WORSHIP HIM—THEY THINK HE WILL DRIVE THE EVIL SPIRITS FROM THEIR COUNTRY
MR WORKS THINKS THEY'RE GONER SET A TRAP FOR ME—POOEY! I KIN TAKE CARE OF MESELF

TRADING SLOW ON BIG BOARD

Holiday Apathy Brings New York Market Almost To Standstill.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—Pre-holiday apathy brought trading in the security markets almost to a standstill today and prices generally drifted about lazily over an extremely narrow range.

Stocks started out with a mild rally, led by the alcohols, but the moderate upward flurry was of brief duration and most quotations soon drifted back to around their levels of yesterday. Many operators had already left town for the protracted week-end and those who remained found little to inspire them to doughty deeds. Wheat was a trifle heavy at one time, but other grains and cotton fluctuated in unimportant fractions. The dollar sagged a bit in foreign exchange dealings, but there was no pronounced pressure against the American currency. Bonds moved little.

Shares of National Distillers got up some four points at one time, and those of Schenley, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and American Commerce Alcohol advanced 1 to 2 points. Homestake Mining gained 5 and Alaska Juneau was slightly higher. Small gains were recorded by Case, U. S. Smelting, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, Western Union, Chrysler and U. S. Steel. Liggett & Myers B was somewhat heavy, and issues of Du Pont, New York Central, General Motors and others eased.

While there were a few technical readjustments of accounts and "evening up" operations reported, in preparation for the three day recess beginning Saturday, there were no indications of any extensive liquidation. At the same time, most traders were said to be maintaining a neutral position with the idea of waiting until after Labor day to see "which way the cat jumps."

ACTRESS TESTIFIES IN ALIENATION SUIT

Claire Windsor, Defendant in $100,000 Action, Tells of Love Affair.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 31—Claire Windsor, blonde actress, says she allowed her acquaintance with handsome Alfred C. Read to blossom into a love affair because she believed the broker's statement that he was unmarried.

The assertion was made in testimony in the alienation of affections trial in which Mrs. Marion Read, former wife of the Oakland, Calif., business man, seeks $100,000 from Miss Windsor. The actress had only begun her story when court adjourned yesterday. Extra bailiffs were ordered to the courtroom today to control the crowds.

Miss Windsor testified her romance with Read progressed on a transcontinental train as it rolled through the farm lands of Kansas and as she and Read sat on the observation platform during "a gorgeous moonlit night."

Miss Windsor said Read suggested during the second night, when the train was somewhere in Illinois, that they get married. At that time, she testified, Read admitted he was a married man, and had misled her when he first induced her to think he was single. But she said, Read declared he was separated from his wife and was planning a divorce.

GRAIN MARKET IS IRREGULAR

Erratic Fluctuations Characterize Trading in Chicago Pit.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 31—Erratic fluctuations characterized the grain markets today.

Wheat dropped abruptly more than two cents a bushel at the start on profit taking from speculators who thought yesterday's six-cent advance was too steep. This was followed by breaks and rallies in rapid succession over a two-cent range with a late bulge reaching the best prices of the day. All other grains swung up and down with wheat. Some evening up trades for the triple holiday ahead were noted. A private crop report, issued a day ahead of most, indicated a corn crop of 2,160,000,000 bushels, a drop of 113,000,000 bushels from the official estimate last month, but had no appreciable effect on the market.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼ to ⅝ below yesterday's finish.

Corn, easy and ⅛ to 1⅛ off.

Oats, ⅛@¼ down, rye ⅜@⅝ higher, and provisions mixed, eight cents lower to 10 cents advanced.

VOTE ASKED ON SEWAGE PLANT

Bucyrus Action Hinges on Acceptance by U. S.; Cost Placed at $125.000.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug 31—Lured by what they term the most attractive proposition yet advanced for construction of a sewage disposal plant at a cost of $125,000 the Bucyrus city council at a special meeting held Tuesday night voted to again present the issue before the voters next November

City Solicitor J D Sears was instructed by council to prepare at once legislation calling for placement of the question on a special ballot The legislation will be presented at the next council meeting Sept 5

A vote in November will mark the second time within the last two years the public has been asked to pass judgment on this subject which has been before officials since the state health board issued a mandatory order for such a plant in 1928 The issue was lost by better than two to one in 1931

Placing of the issue before the voters in November hinges however, on agreement of the federal government that the necessary fund will be advanced to the city on the 30-70 per cent basis now in force through the NRA E F Barneby of Columbus construction engineer agreed Tuesday night to go before the federal officials on this phase without additional cost

Barneby presented the $125,000 proposition to council about three weeks ago It was the first figure council had heard under $240,000, the amount of the bond issue asked two years ago When the question first arose $400,000 was believed to be necessary

Bishop Brown To Be 78 Monday; Will Make Trip

Special to The Star

GALION Aug 31 — Bishop William Montgomery Brown, philanthropist and author of a number of books, will celebrate his seventy-eighth birthday anniversary Sept 4, in a quiet manner at his home Brownella cottage here.

The following day he plans to leave for Chicago Ill On the evening of Sept 6 and the morning of Sept 7, he will address a body of men known as the Fellowship of Faiths and Parliament of Religions

Much of Bishop Brown's time is spent in writing His latest work, 'Science and History' has reached the second edition with 10 000 copies issued to practically all continents including North America, South America, Australia, Africa, Europe and Asia

Bishop Brown was born on an Ohio farm in 1855 near Orville

At the age of 25 he came under the influence of Mrs Mary Scranton Bradford of Cleveland, a wealthy philanthropist who aided him to obtain a college education On June 17, 1883, he was ordained a deacon having completed the course of theological studies of the Episcopalian church at Gambier seminary

That same year he was assigned to Grace Mission of this city After establisning a number of Episcopalian churches he attracted attention and was installed arch-deacon of Ohio in 1891 During this time his sermons were so noted that he became a lecturer at Gambier seminary where he collected and published a book 'The Church for Americans' probably his first writing

On June 24, 1898, Bishop Brown was named bishop coadjutor of Arkansas and on Sept 5, 1899, was consecrated bishop of the diocese of Arkansas. Broken in health he resigned this position on April 11, 1912

After his resignation in 1912 and during the recuperation of his health he began a study of Darwin's theories, and those of Carl Marx and Emanuel Kant, which led to the publication of his next book 'Communism and Christianism" This book so shocked the Episcopalian church with its heretical views that he was tried for heresy and was deposed Oct. 11, 1925

As a result of the heresy charges and trial Bishop Brown came in contact with the Old Catholic church He is now a bishop in that church having been consecrated at Brownella chapel here by Bishop William H Francis in 1926.

USE THE Budget System
By means of a budget system all expenses are determined upon a fixed income
A great many individuals are adopting the budget plan—it is nothing more or less than a systematic control of their expenses, which is a much better means than drifting along in a "HIT or MISS" fashion.
A simple method is to set aside 10% or more of what you make and figure to live on the balance, and often then there may be some left to add to your 10% fund.
Try the budget system for awhile; it may be beneficial.

KENTON AWAITS FIELD TRIALS

National Leafy Oak To Be Labor Day Coon Chase Feature.

KENTON, Aug. 31—Prizes totaling more than $2 000 will be offered here Labor day to the cream of the nation's coon dogs in the world's richest classic for any breed of dogs The seventh edition of National Leafy Oak Coon Dog Field Trials will be staged here at that time.

The world's championship and a stake of $1,000 are offered in the grand final race when fire and tree winners that have weathered difficult elimination heats and the more arduous semi-finals will match noses and scents in the most difficult trail of them all As in former years Henry J Pfeiffer, manager of the trials will lay the final trail.

Last minute entries made possible continuance of the featured coon chase, copied new throughout the nation by managements that have never reached the richness of a $1,000 grand final stake and the $55 elimination heat prizes Dogs from nearly one-half the states of the union, from Canada and Mexico, are entered Jack Crow of Willits, Calif is enroute to Kenton with his 17-months-old hound, "Polo," for the stake and has requested "Hank' Pfeiffer to look him up a job with fellow barbers, in the event his entry fails to place

Speculation was rampant here this week as to the possible winner of the 1933 trials—no one dog ever having won the classic more than once "Gold Coin out of the kennels of I B Baker of Norwich, came the closest within seconds in the 1927 and 1928 trials and a victory in 1929

Ohio dogs have continued to hold the preference in every year—from the opening event when Baker sent "Little Shiek' through to victory, down through his victory with "Cub" and 'Gold Coin the surprise victory of 'Red Fox" owned by Jimmy and Weirman Smith of Franklin, and through last year when Nick Kuhn of Lewisville sent his "Duke' in to romp away with the honors and the championship of North America.
